Voice Over Production Services that Hit Your Target Market

If you need voice over pre-production services for your project like copywriting and character development, Randolph is your "spin doctor." Among his esoteric studies for engaging the human mind, Randolph is setting his sights on a further degree in holistic psychology with Eisner Institute. In doing so, he utilizes the latest scientific discoveries in affecting the human mind through communications to help your brand make the best, first impression.

Healing the mind is the end result of psychotherapy of which communications is an integral part; it's really about using the mind to affect the voice to affect other minds, a decades old Tavistock Foundation that has helped politicians and mainstream media to inspire the people since 1947.

Now, Randolph wants to use these basic principles to help your company's bottom line with audience retention of your brand. Even if your idea for copy and characters are bare skeletons, Randolph will muscle up, flesh up, spice up, and humanize them to identify with your target market.
